Leah Singh

COVET TOUCHING TANGENT

Textile maker Leah Singh's geometric forms and unique colour combinations bring to mind contemporary artist Rana Begum's artworks. Working with artisans in India, Singh, who divides her time between New York and Delhi, has created cosy cushions inspired by everything from phulkari to pride parades. Besides Khosla, Bold will feature works by some of India's leading graphic designers

ATTEND TYPE CAST

Come first week of September and Ishan Khosla Design will be part of an exhibition titled Bold by Create Culture, during the London Design Festival. The Typecraft Initiative, already showcased at Fukuoka Asian Art Museum in Japan this February, sees Khosla collaborate with craftsmen and artists from across the country to create various typefaces. "It's an effort to celebrate, archive and educate users about the beauty and vitality of these communities," says Khosla. Londondesignfestival.com

▼ NATURAL CHOICE

If you're looking for decor ideas in a muted palette with earthy textures, Simone Arora's eponymous Mumbai store is your one-stop shop. Take this rustic candle holder, which can instantly turn a city apartment into a tranquil den. Simone.com

COMING SOON... JODHPUR GEM

As the Blue City readies for a facelift, Good Earth's new store will add to its glamour. Architect ROOSHAD SHROFF gives us a walkthrough of his latest project

Five stories:

"There's a museum-like appeal to the store. Each room is curated to address a different story and experience. For example, the room with soft furnishings opens up to a textile theatre, where people can view Good Earth's short craft films while sitting amongst their collection of blankets, cushions and rugs. This allows customers to actually experience the products. Then there's a room dedicated to taste and another to smell."

Sufi spin: "Every year, Jodhpur hosts the World Sacred Spirit Festival so we reference that in our decor with a large crinkled lehenga hanging from the ceiling. It will be powered by motors to mimic and twirl like a dervish." Local acts: "Engaging with local artisans was important to us, so we've used local terrazzo, marble and pink sandstone. We created a stepwell-inspired jewellery display in marble that is inspired by the iconic stepwell architecture in the city. For the ornate ceilings, we commissioned Nathdwara artists to do pichhwai-inspired artwork". -Pahull Bains
