ROOSHAD SHROFF

This clever marble lamp is by Rooshad Shroff, whose eponymous design practice is based on the principle of integrated design with a focus on craftsmanship. This particular lamp reverses the idea of a traditional lamp by having an opaque shade made from a single block of black marble, hand-carved with fluting synonymous with fabric pleats. The light source is inside the white marble tube, which is hand-carved into a thinness that allows the light to pass through.
